Principal's Message

"A language is an exact reflection of the character and growth of its speakers."

Mahatma Gandhi

Language connects and binds us all, despite its difference it speaks volumes on identity and culture. It acts as a bridge to express and convey conversations, going beyond borders and capturing the essence of communication. History and language go hand in hand in order to shed light on the past, the present and opening ways to the future. India is a land of diversity, with it comes many languages from every nook and corner of the country. We are united as one through the power of language. India's rich heritage is commendable due to its immense complexity in language, from Sanskrit to Tamil, all of which contributes to the country's long standing history. The very existence of scripts is evident of civilization, for which it must be preserved through a collective understanding with the help of education.

The objective of this newsletter is to acknowledge the very existence of native scripts and languages often unexplored by the public times. It further shed light on the rich culture and history of the origin of these scripts. Therefore, it focuses on bringing forth the importance of knowing the existence of certain scripts like Tamil, Devanagari, Meitei Lon and many more. The department of history continues to bring forth the importance of language by exposing the readers to a whole new journey on origin of scripts.

It is indeed a glorious feat from the Department of History in producing the tenth edition of ITIHASA newsletter on "Indian Scripts and Languages". I heartily congratulate and wish for the success of the staff and students in every venture they take in the future for the glorification of our country and the institution. Let your light shine!
